FOR THE GREY- *Inquisition witch hunters knock on door* -EMPEROR!. What are they smoking? 10 bucks for this? REALLY? REALLY? YOU THQ no really YOU. if u want the most overpowered commander in dawn of war retribution buy this!! So being awesome, finally a hero that is all out offensive, THAT'S THE WAY WE ROLL BETCHES!. Ridiculously high price for such a meager DLC.. In the dark future of the 41st Millennium only pretending to be Iron man can save you.

Despite being the most expensive out of the all the DLC that is provided for Retribution, the Tau Commander more than makes up for the pricing by offering a new hero option in Last Stand. For those of you who are not familiar with the Tau, this Commander focuses on solely Ranged combat with an entire set of unique weapons that enable you to alter the offensive or defensive abilities of this character as is the case with all hero options.

If there is any flaws with this hero it is that at times the unit feels overpowered as you annihilate anything even vaguely near you with ease, especially once you have unlocked the higher level weapons.. Awesome character... Great fun... Outrageous price!. In the dark future of the 41st Millenium there is only cash grab!

Additional content should be paid for! Yet said content should be worth the pay. For the price this dlc initially asked for it should atleast have included the Tau race as a playable faction in multiplayer and not just one hero for the sub game mode in moba style (which also never got more maps or other replayability).

I waited for a heavy discount which is its actual worth it in my opinion (if it actually still has players at this point).. Finally, a mention of everybody's favourite desert fish. Hopefully they'll get a return in DoW III
